THE LSEC CORNER

Creating a Safe Christmas Celebration

It is important to promote a festive atmosphere to celebrate certain times of the year in accordance with established societal norms. In doing so, it is essential to ensure that the end result is not a hazardous condition or environment that jeopardizes the safety of the building's occupants, conflicts with applicable safety codes and best practices, or impedes emergency responders from gaining access to a property during an emergency situation or potential crisis.

There are five important areas of concern that can compromise safety during the Christmas and seasonal celebrations. These areas include: electricity, exits, live decorations, open flame, and fire protection systems. The following tips address these areas and are designed to help ensure that you have created a safe Christmas celebration.

Use common sense when setting up electric decorations. If it looks unsafe, it probably is. Do not get carried away with extension cords and only use approved outlet strips or surge protectors.

Thoroughly inspect Christmas light strands and electronic decorations before use to ensure that they are properly functioning and undamaged.

Do not compromise the means of egress in hallways, lobbies and near exit doors with Christmas trees, religious scenes, and other decorations.

Candles must be used in accordance with all applicable codes, regulations, and best practices. A good tip to remember is to NEVER leave a candle unattended.

Keep combustible materials like gift wrapping and decorations away from the fireplace as radiant and convection heat can raise the temperature of the material near the fire box to its ignition point and start a fire.

If you have a battery-operated, single station smoke detectors, it is important to maintain the devices in accordance with the manufacturer's recommendations. A safe practice, is to change the battery before you display your holiday decoration.

Fresh Christmas trees need water. Make sure your tree is always in water and the average Christmas tree can use as much as 1 gallon (3.79 liters) of water per day. General rule is one quart (0.95 liters) of water is required for each inch of the trunk's diameter.

The holidays certainly are a wonderful time of year – they are typically greatly anticipated periods during the year full of traditions and revelry. Be safe and enjoy.

How To Report Abuse

The Archdiocese of Newark takes very seriously any and all credible complaints of sexual misconduct by members of the clergy, religious and lay staff of the archdiocese. We encourage anyone with knowledge of an act of sexual misconduct to inform the archdiocese immediately so that we may take appropriate action to protect others and provide support to victims of sexual abuse.

Individuals who wish to report an allegation of sexual misconduct may do so by calling the Archdiocesan Office of the Protection of the Faithful at 201-407-3256.
